The American Art Union, which did much, and for a time seemed to entrench itself in the hearts of the American people, failed for the want of proper patronage and care in its management; also the Philadelphia and Western Arts Unions—both of which were short-lived. Their want of success by no means proves a lack of taste on the part of our people; but, on the contrary, from the interest manifested in them, proves the popular sympathy to have been greatly in their favor. To C. L. DERBY belongs the honor of linking Literature with Art, and organizing an Association suited to the tastes and wants of the country.—Thibodeau Minerva, La.

Mr. C. L. Derby, the enterprising originator and prosecutor of this scheme, deserves universal eulogium for his untiring energy and public spirit. It is designed to elevate the standard of Art in this country, and infuse in the popular mind a due appreciation of the Beautiful and True.—Home Companion, Findley, Ohio.
